“THE COLLECTION FEELS LIKE AN HOMAGE TO THE MUSEUM, TO THE CITY OF NEW YORK, TO CULTURE.”

Edwin van der Gun, Chief Creative Officer of Eichholtz has played a key role in the new collaboration with The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and explains what this groundbreaking new collection means to Eichholtz.

An opportunity such as this cannot be underestimated. With travel, research, and the exploration into cultures and craftsmanship other than our own forming the backbone of Theo Eichholtz's founding principles, this new collaboration with The Met feels like the perfect expression of that.

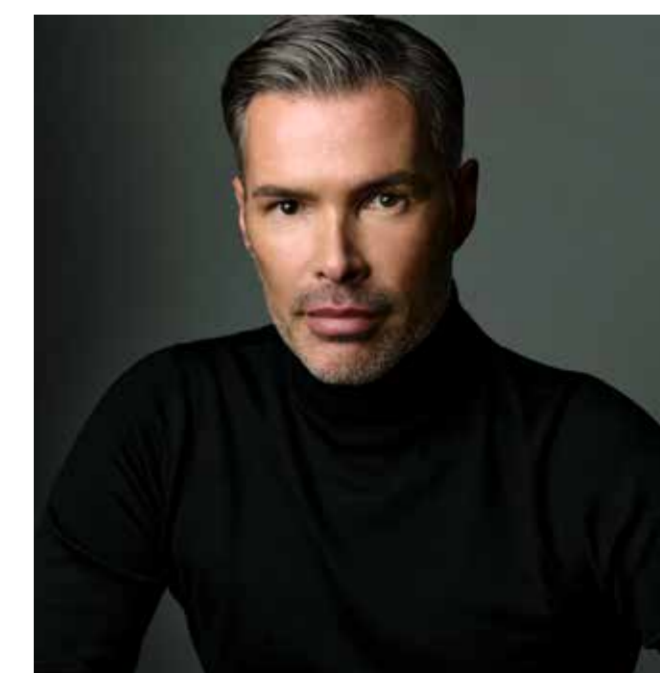

My design team and I have spent the most precious and rewarding time during this past year exploring the museum and its archives with unbridled access to over 1.5 million artifacts that span over 5000 years of history. That privilege has been an extraordinary one, both for me as a creative person but also for us as a design-led business. The result is that we launch the first The Met | Eichholtz collection with almost 100 unique pieces that span furniture and lighting inspired by both the architecture of the museum building itself and the iconic New York skyline as well as presenting a series of finely crafted, faithful reproductions of sculptures, busts, and artworks.

Our material palette is our most exquisite: marble, travertine, hand-blown glass, bronze, brass, oak, and pure wool. We are enormously proud to share this very special collection with you.

GLOBALLY INSPIRED, ARTFULLY CRAFTED

The Met | Eichholtz collection draws inspiration from over 5,000 years of history and art exhibited at the world-renowned institution. With almost 100 unique products, each has been beautifully crafted to tell a story of ancient civilizations up to the present day that with our creative vision and contemporary interpretation, feels luxurious and ideal for a modern lifestyle.

A dark wood dining table with a built-in bookshelf. The table is surrounded by four upholstered chairs with black legs. The table is set with a stack of books, including 'SAINT LAURENT' and 'CHANEL', a vase of green hydrangeas, and a candle holder. The room is decorated with a large potted plant, a chandelier, and framed art.

A gold bar cart with a glass top and wheels. It holds several glasses, a bottle of water, and a bottle of green liquid. The cart is positioned near a window with sheer curtains.

A vase filled with pink peonies, placed on a surface next to a gold chair.

A vase filled with green hydrangeas, placed on a surface next to a candle holder.

A wall-mounted light fixture with a textured, metallic finish, emitting a warm glow.

A large, ornate chandelier with multiple tiers of glass or crystal elements, hanging from the ceiling.

A portion of a light-colored upholstered chair with a dark frame, visible on the left side of the image.

A gold-framed upholstered chair with a light-colored seat and backrest, positioned on the right side of the image.

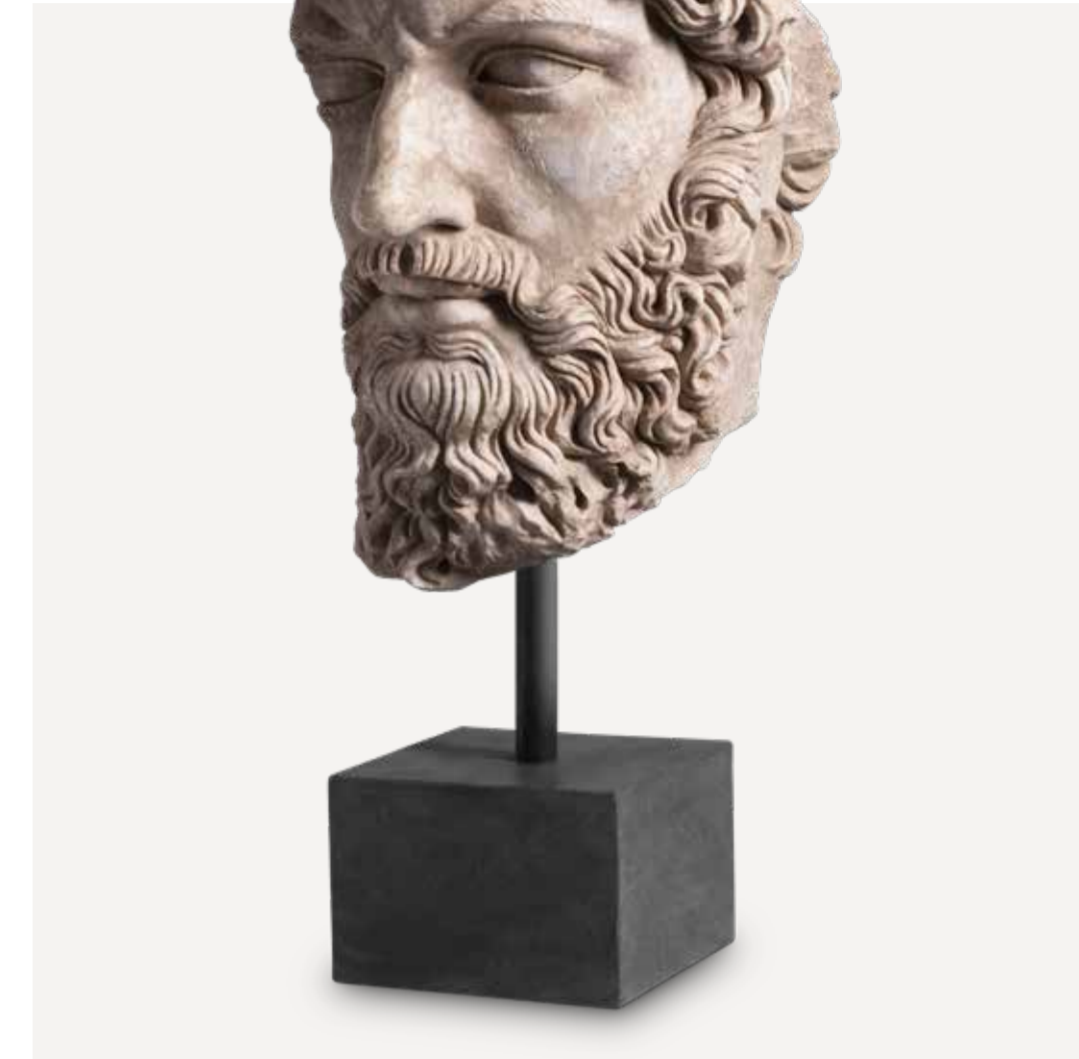

Where ancient civilizations meet contemporary life, this new collection delivers a new take on luxury inspired by the creativity of the past and blends perfectly with the Eichholtz mainline collection.

ABOUT THE MET

The Metropolitan Museum of Art was founded in 1870 by a group of American citizens – businessmen and financiers as well as leading artists and thinkers of the day – who wanted to create a museum to bring art and art education to the American people.

Today, The Met displays tens of thousands of objects covering 5,000 years of art from around the world for everyone to experience and enjoy. The Museum lives in two iconic sites in New York City – The Met Fifth Avenue and The Met Cloisters. Millions of people also take part in The Met experience online.

Since its founding, The Met has always aspired to be more than a treasury of rare and beautiful objects. Every day, art comes alive in the Museum's galleries and through its exhibitions and events, revealing both new ideas and unexpected connections across time and across cultures.
